Don't Miss the Friendship Club Article

The evolution of the Friendship Club at Agape Fellowship began when Hope Enterprises closed their day programs due to the pandemic, leaving a void, but the idea became fully formed when four people came together at just the right time to fill that need.

Kathy Stopper could see that her daughter Jo missed being with the friends that she had made at the Hope programs, so she and a couple of the other moms with adult children who were also missing their friends decided to get everyone together informally at a park.

After about a year, they decided they wanted to include more people, so the group approached Hope. It was suggested that Agape Fellowship, where Stopper is a member, would be a good place because of the handicap accessibility it offers.

"Hope does an awesome job of doing a lot of programming and things, but (this helps) to get a little bit more variety because on the off-times when they're not working with Hope, they might have gone to the mall, but the mall is no longer here," states Kimberly Kohler, assistant professor of education at Lycoming College.

Underpinning the club has been the support of Hope Enterprises. "It might seem like there's all these things to do in the community for everyone, but when you're out there every day trying to find something to do for someone, it's hard and it gets monotonous," said Jen Kaufman, Hope Enterprises' supervisor of Choice Services.
